THURSDAY, DECEMBER 22, 1910.

Entered as second-class matter.

Mr. Carnegie's $10,000,000 peace fund might stop a war if it were thrown in between the armies where they could scramble for it.

Young Miss Vivian Gould is to be married to a lord 44 years old, but over there they do not regard the so-called Osler theory with any seriousness.

After having been six days without food a sailor swam several miles to the shore of Australia, pursued by sharks. A man who can get away with a yarn like that wastes his talent before the mast.

Since the farmers of the west and southwest have been buying automobiles by the thousands the last year or so, there has been the greatest increase in the construction of permanent, perfect highways.

For the second time this year Los Angeles, Cal., will hold an international aviation meet from December 25th to January 3rd, 1911. The aviators entered are Hoxsey, Brookings, and Parmelee with the Wright biplanes; Willard, Curtiss, Mars, Ely, Shriver, and Capt. Baldwin with their Curtiss biplanes; Radley with his Blériot monoplane, and Latham with his Antoinette monoplane.

Louisville has done the proper and liberal thing in the matter of providing funds for its proposed new Y. M. C. A. buildings, as more than $400,000 have been subscribed. The campaign was launched to secure $350,000, and the extra $50,000 speaks in highest terms for the people of our metropolis, while the extra amount will be used wisely and well. Louisville has shown that it is awake to its best interests.

The first aviation show to be held in New York will open in the Grand Central Palace in connection with the Automobile Show from December 31st to January 7th next. A score of the latest aeroplanes of French and American manufacture will be on view. Among the most interesting of these will be found Moisant's two Blériot monoplanes—the passenger-carrying machine with which he flew from Paris to London, and the racer with which he won the Statue of Liberty prize flight—as well as his all-steel monoplane which he built in France a year ago; the Wright special altitude biplane with which Johnstone made his record of 9,714 feet at Belmont Park, and Santos Dumont's original "Demoiselle" monoplane. New monoplanes will be exhibited by the Scientific Aeroplane Company (which will show the first aeroplane equipped with a gyroscope), the Lovelace-Thompson Company, and the Walden-Dyott Company, while the Wrights, Burgess, and Glenn Curtiss will show their latest biplanes. The show will give an excellent opportunity to see the progress being made by Americans in aviation, and in the construction of improved heavier-than-air machines.

The Mouth-Breather.

If a family numbers among its children one who habitually breathes with the mouth open, it will do well to realize speedily that the child will remain, at its best, a semi-invalid until steps are taken to remedy the local condition. The child cannot help breathing that way. It has no alternative. In no other way can it get enough air. It is cruelty to nag it to keep its mouth shut.

The nose, which people are too likely to think of as primarily the organ for smelling, has really much more important work to do. It is intended for breathing, and if it is stopped up, the breath must be obtained some other way—that is, through the mouth, which will naturally be held open for that purpose. This, in its turn, will result in the long chain of evil results that may follow when any of the vital processes of the body are interrupted.

The mucous membrane which lines the nose is less delicate than that of the rest of the breathing tract. Its purpose is to catch the air as it first comes in, and warm and filter and cleanse it before it goes down to the lungs. The mouth was never designed to act as a substitute for the nose in performing this work.

The air enters the nose through a small opening, and passes slowly round before it goes on farther down, and all the time it is being filtered of impurities and warmed. Most persons know the exceeding unpleasantness of occasional forced breathing through the mouth, when bicycling against a wind, for instance, or after running to catch a car. The throat puts in its protest immediately. There is a dry, harsh sensation and a general sense of local irritation. This is partly due to the direct action of chilled air, but also to the fact that all the germs and dust particles in the air pass down unfiltered and unchecked.

A mouth, at with reasonable comfort in the still, warm, moist atmosphere of the house or of a balmy climate, but will develop innumerable troubles if exposed to wind and dust, as in motor-ing or bicycling.

The mouth-breather should be examined for adenoids, that is, fleshy growths which block the air-passages, in order that the serious later consequences of this defect may be avoided.

Among these consequences may be mentioned chronic catarrh, deafness, a metallic and disagreeable voice, early decay of the teeth, deformities of the jaw which may mark the patient for life, and an increased tendency to contract tuberculosis.

There are many other symptoms due to the fact that the blood does not get enough oxygen, such as headache, disturbed sleep and mental slowness, all of which often disappear miraculously with the removal of the adenoids.

Ring Out Wild Bells

By Alfred Tennyson

Ring out, wild bells, to the wild sky,
The flying cloud, the frosty light.
The year is dying in the night—
Ring out, wild bells, and let him die.

Ring out the old, ring in the new;
Ring, happy bells, across the snow.
The year is going; let him go—
Ring out the false, ring in the true.

Ring out the grief that saps the mind
For those that here we see no more;
Ring out the feud of rich and poor;
Ring in redress to all mankind.

Ring out a slowly dying cause
And ancient forms of party strife;
Ring in the nobler modes of life,
With sweeter manners, purer laws.

Ring out the want, the care, the sin,
The faithless coldness of the times;
Ring out, ring out, my mournful rhymes,
But ring the fuller minstrel in.

Ring out false pride in place and blood,
The civic slander and the spite;
Ring in the love of truth and right;
Ring in the common love of good.

Ring out old shapes of foul disease;
Ring out the narrowing lust of gold;
Ring out the thousand wars of old;
Ring in the thousand years of peace.

Ring in the valiant man and free,
The larger heart, the kindlier hand;
Ring out the darkness of the land;
Ring in the Christ that is to be.
